

LIVING WELL WITH EPILEPSY

Join us for an enlightening event on epilepsy treatment options, featuring insights from epilepsy specialist Dr. Mesha-Gay Brown and neurosurgeon Dr. Abhijeet Gummadavelli. They'll be accompanied by a panel of leading experts, advocacy organizations, and individuals who will share their personal experiences with epilepsy and its treatment.

Mesha-Gay Brown, MD
Epileptologist

Dr. Brown is a board-certified epileptologist and an expert in the evaluation and treatment of patients with seizures and epilepsy. Dr. Brown felt an early calling to the field of health care as someone who required compassionate care as a child with severe asthma. She is passionate about whole-person care and offers comprehensive treatment options for patients, from their first seizure and beyond.

Abhijeet Gummadavelli, MD
Neurosurgeon

Dr. Gummadavelli is a fellowship-trained adult epilepsy and general neurosurgeon with Neurosurgery One in Littleton. He specializes in stereotactic and functional neurosurgery including deep brain stimulation (DBS), NeuroPace responsive neurostimulation (RNS), and vagus nerve stimulation (VNS) for adult patients with epilepsy. He's committed to helping adults with uncontrolled epilepsy seizures, and especially enjoys working with patients who have had other treatments or surgeries that have not resulted in the hoped-for benefits.
